Union Asks More From GE Plants

WASHINGTON (AP) — The International Union of Electrical Workers today announced a big bundle of contract demands on the General Electric Co., including a 3½ per cent minimum wage boost.

Union President James B. Carey unwrapped the package in an elaborately staged, nine-city closed circuit television news conference.

Demand in addition to the wage increase include the union shop, liberalized and company-paid pensions, health and insurance benefits and a form of guaranteed annual wage.

Carey described the demands as reasonable and constructive. In response to questions he added: "We are not asking for or anticipating or threatening strikes. All the strike talk has come from the officials of the company."

The proposed contract would run 1½ to 2 years, Carey said, replacing the five-year contract which expires October 1. It would cover some 88,000 workers represented by the AFL-CIO union in about 75 plants employing an estimated 245,000.

He said a similar pattern of demands will be presented in about two weeks to the Westinghouse Corp.

Thunderstorms Power Across Areas of U. S.

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

A line of thunderstorms powered by strong winds moved into parts of the Midwest today.

Northwest Missouri and eastern Kansas were particularly in the line of bad weather, the Chicago Weather Bureau reported.

The bureau forecast winds of up to 65 miles an hour for the area.

The storms evidently pooled off a seige of foul weather that raked parts of the Midwest Wednesday night. Tornadoes, real and unconfirmed, hit Nebraska and Michigan; winds up to 80 m.p.h. hit some communities, along with heavy rain and hail.

One man was killed and three others injured east of Holdrege, Neb., when a tornado toppled a granary.

Utility lines collapsed, windows crashed as heavy rain and hail hit a score of towns in central and south central Nebraska. A small tornado hit Lincoln, causing some damage to buildings on the State Hospital grounds.

Ten persons were injured when a tornado hit several trailer homes near Elkhorn, Neb.

Powerful winds toppled outbuildings, trees and utility lines in south central Michigan.

Hail, wind and rain also struck Iowa communities. The Weather Bureau reported 3.50 inches of rain in 1½ hours at Keosauqua, Iowa. Des Moines had winds of up to 55 m.p.h.

Early temperatures today ranged from the 40s in the Colorado Rockies to the 50s and 60s in the East, Midwest and Pacific Coast, the 80s in the south and 90s in the desert southwest.

It was 98 at midnight at Needles, Calif.

Clarence Thorbrough, Arkansas Labor Commissioner, and Representative Talbot Field Jr., spoke briefly. Teddy Jones, local office manager, presided at the informal gathering.

Representatives from Hope business houses, stores, firms, and industrial establishments along with city and county officials were present. ESD agency officials and section heads from Little Rock attended the opening.

The new modernistic structure was beautifully decorated with floral baskets and flowers sent the office by many Hope firms and individuals. Butler's Florist Co. donated their services in handling interior arrangements and decorations.

Visitors inspected the building and enjoyed refreshments served by the local office staff.

Communist Riots Force Ike to Cancel Japan Visit

U. S. Pledged to Defense of Philippines

By JOHN SCALI

MANILA (AP) — President Eisenhower wound up his visit here tonight by pledging the United States to defend the Philippines instantly against any armed attack. The promise scored a diplomatic success to match his personal triumph.

Along with gratitude for Eisenhower's affectionate welcome here, his aides displayed relief at cancellation of his trip to Japan.

In a final communique with President Carlos P. Garcia, Eisenhower pledged that any attack on this former American colony "would be instantly repelled."

This was what Philippine leaders have been wanting as a major gain from Eisenhower's 2½-day visit. These islands lie only an hour's jet flight from Communist China and are firmly allied with the West. Filipino officials wanted U. S. defense pledges outlined in black and white to put Peiping on notice.

"This makes our cups brim over," said one Filipino official. The President continued to be the object of popular acclaim and affection in the Philippines. He appeared unconcerned about cancellation of his Japanese visit.

The trip had been planned to start Sunday. White House press secretary James C. Hagerty said Eisenhower's schedule will be revised aboard the cruiser St. Paul as the presidential party heads for Formosa. He is due in the Nationalist Chinese island stronghold Saturday.

Hagerty said U. S. officials are asking the South Korean government whether the trip to Seoul can be moved ahead. A one-day stopover there had been planned after the Japanese visit.

Hagerty read off a prepared statement announcing cancellation of the trip. In it Eisenhower joined Prime Minister Nobusuke Kishi of Japan in blaming a small organized minority "led by professional Communist agitators" for the long series of riots that made it impossible for the Japanese government to guarantee the President's safety.

Eisenhower vowed that the Japanese rioters who forced delay of his trip "will not and can not disrupt the abiding friendship and understanding" uniting Japan and the United States. He expressed confidence that the Japanese government can check these "deliberate challenges to law and order."

Asked whether Eisenhower believes Moscow or Peking directed the riots against Kishi, Hagerty replied: "Probably both."

The Japanese government's decision cast a pall of regret and uncertainty over the President's entourage. But the regret was mixed with relief that the President would not have to risk his personal safety in a mission that Hagerty said earlier Eisenhower was determined to fulfill "as a soldier."

Eisenhower is known to have turned down the advice of some aides who suggested he cancel the Japanese visit after the collapse of plans for a goodwill visit to the Soviet Union.

Advice from Ambassador Douglas MacArthur II in Tokyo had been that the Japanese left wing would not dare demonstrate against Eisenhower, particularly when he was accompanied by Emperor Hirohito on his drive from the airport to downtown Tokyo.

Security authorities became less and less convinced of this as fanatical Japanese student groups stepped up the tempo of their demonstrations against Kishi.

The Secret Service men, who would have had prime responsibility for Eisenhower's safety in Tokyo, heard the news of the cancellation with undisguised pleasure.

U.S. Has Suffered Humiliation and Costly Defeat With Cancellation

By JOHN M. HIGHTOWER

WASHINGTON (AP) — The United States suffered a humiliating and costly defeat today in the collapse of President Eisenhower's scheduled visit to Tokyo.

The Soviet-Chinese Communist bloc won a victory of menacing proportions. It was the second time in exactly a month that a great international event has gone against the wishes of Eisenhower and along lines charted by the international Communist leadership.

At Paris May 16, Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev killed the Big Four summit conference in its first meeting, leaving Eisenhower and his British and French allies to survey the wreckage of their hopes for some improvement in East-West relations.

Today's debacle in Tokyo is potentially more damaging to the United States and its allies, and in the long run poses a greater threat to the balance of U. S.-Soviet relations and therefore to world peace, than did the breakdown in Paris.

The immediate problem before Eisenhower and Japanese Prime Minister Nobusuke Kishi, in fact, is how to handle the situation to minimize the injury to U. S.-Japanese relations and to the free world's political position and defense structure throughout the Far East.

The great difference between the May 16 breakdown at Paris and the June 16 disaster in Tokyo is this: The explosion of the summit conference coupled with Khrushchev's violent personal attacks on Eisenhower forced the Western Allies closer together and strengthened their resolve to resist Soviet threat and bluster.

Cancellation of Eisenhower's trip to Tokyo threatens to undermine a vital anchor point of the system of anti-Communist alliances in the Far East.

Kishi's government, being compelled to confess its inability to maintain order, appears now to have no choice except to resign, which is what the riotous left-wing students have been demanding.

Kishi himself, it was noted here, said he would not quit or dissolve the Parliament until a pending new U. S.-Japanese security pact is ratified this week-end. The ratification process will be completed automatically so long as Parliament remains in session.

The security pact rather than Eisenhower's visit, has been the prime target of left-wing and Communist opposition. By holding Parliament in session, Kishi has the power to win the floor victory on the issue of its ratification but it may prove to be an empty victory unless new political forces come into play in Tokyo now that the visit has been canceled.

In the present circumstances, opponents of the new security pact appear to have gone a long way toward undermining the U. S. Continued on Page Two

Wage Bill Approved by Committee

WASHINGTON (AP) — The House Labor Committee today formally approved a bill raising the minimum wage and extending its coverage into retail and service industries.

The vote was 19-9 with 17 Democrats and two Republicans favoring it and eight Republicans and one Democrat opposed. The measure had received tentative committee clearance yesterday.

The bill provides for an increase Nov. 1 in the minimum wage from $1 an hour to $1.15, a step up to $1.20 the following November and to $1.25 in 1962.

The major provision, however, is its extension of coverage for the first time since the wage-hour law was passed in 1938. It brings in 4,105,000 employees of retail firms, hotels, and laundries doing an annual business of more than one million dollars.

For these newly covered workers an additional step in reaching the $1.25 minimum is provided. They will start this year at $1, and go to $1.10, $1.20 and $1.25 on successive years.

A five-year period of adjusting to the 40-hour week is also provided for newly covered workers.

Final Senate Labor Committee action on a similar minimum wage bill was blocked today by Senate Republican Leader Everett M. Dirksen (R-Ill.).

Both cases were filed by Bennett in 1957.

Suits Taken Under Study by Court

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — One of two state lawsuits against the National Assn. for the Advancement of Colored People has been taken under advisement and a scheduled hearing in the second case has been delayed.

Judge J. Mitchell Cockrell yesterday heard arguments by ALA, Gen. Bruce Bennett and NAACP attorney George Howard Jr. on a suit by Bennett asking for a $5,000 judgment as a fine against the NAACP for allegedly doing business in the state before registering as a foreign corporation.

He then took the case under advisement. A scheduled hearing on a suit asking an injunction to prohibit the NAACP from allegedly practicing law in violation of state statutes was delayed by an argument over what such an injunction would cover.

Judge Guy Ansler heard arguments in chambers on whether the injunction would cover both state and federal courts in Arkansas or would apply only in state courts.

He ordered briefs submitted before a trial is scheduled. The NAACP's legal activity in Arkansas has been largely in federal court.

Both cases were filed by Bennett in 1957.

City Seeks to Buy Waterworks

BLITHEVILLE, Ark. (AP) — Blitheville has started action toward possible purchase of the privately-owned Blitheville Water Co.

The City Council Tuesday night directed Mayor Tomler Buchanan and the Utility Committee to see if they could agree with the company owners on a price.

The city could go to court to have a price set. Voters would have to approve a bond issue to finance the purchase.

Officials Could Not Guarantee Ike's Safety

By GENE KRAMER

TOKYO (AP) — President Eisenhower's goodwill visit to Japan was canceled today under the threat of Communist violence. The U. S.-Japanese defense treaty still was in danger.

The pact becomes law automatically Sunday unless Prime Minister Nobusuke Kishi can be forced to dissolve Parliament before then. The Communist-led mobs have two more days in which to try to bring about the downfall of the Kishi government and void the treaty.

In announcing the Eisenhower trip is off, Kishi told reporters: "Even if there is the slightest bit of doubt about the President's safety in Japan, it makes it inappropriate for him to visit at this time."

Eisenhower, in Manila, regretfully agreed. Like Kishi, he blamed Tokyo's left-wing turmoil on a small group of Communist agitators.

Even as Kishi urged Japan to fight Communist mob violence, screaming demonstrators marched outside his official residence screaming for the U. S. aligned cabinet to resign.

Zengakuren, the far-left Marxist student organization, which staged the most violent of Tokyo's five weeks of demonstration, issued a statement claiming credit for cancellation of Eisenhower's visit.

Zengakuren leaders threatened "unlimited strikes and daily demonstrations until Kishi and U. S. Japan security are thrown out."

But Kishi said he will not bow to worldwide Communist demands for a breakup of Japan's military alliance with the United States and resignation of his cabinet.

He said he will not even discuss dissolving Parliament or quitting until the final exchange of ratifications of the new pact providing for American bases here for at least another decade.

Japanese police have been reluctant to use their full powers because they fear the stigma of Japan's brutal prewar police. And the government is even more reluctant to call out troops for fear of acting like Japan's old military masters.

But the opportunity now before the Communist world — a Japan pushed perilously close to revolution by a violent minority — may never come again. It is exactly the type of chaotic situation Communists deliberately foster as the proper setting for a bid for power.

The question remained as to whether the Communists would let this opportunity pass. Kishi was grim-faced as he made the announcement to waiting newsmen after presiding over two emergency Cabinet sessions since midnight.

Kishi, whose government was shaken by prolonged rioting against renewal of the U. S.-Japanese security treaty and Eisenhower's visit, said the demonstrations were "obvious, premeditated violence planned by the Communists."

"To protect peace and freedom and the future prosperity of Japan, we must fight this violence head on," he added.

But Kishi gave no ground on the leftists' chief demands — for dissolution of Parliament to nullify ratification of the defense pact so the voters could accept or reject it in a general election, and for his own resignation.

The prime minister served notice he would continue to press for quick ratification of the treaty.

"I will not resign or dissolve Parliament until the security pact is ratified—I have said it before. Continued on Page Two and I will say it now," Kishi said. The pact originally would have taken effect automatically on Sunday, a month after Kishi's majority in the lower house approved it. The prime minister had planned to postpone this by recessing Parliament during Eisenhower's visit to ease the tension, but it appeared likely he now would keep Parliament in session so the treaty would take effect as originally planned.

Moscow already was crowing over the government's action. A Tass agency dispatch said: "By cancelling the invitation to President Eisenhower, the Kishi government actually admitted its bankruptcy."

The decision came as Tokyo was threatened with another day of left-wing violence.

Approximately 15,000 students and labor union members renewed their demonstrations this morning near the Parliament building where one girl student was killed and more than 1,000 police and demonstrators were injured Wednesday.

"Down with Kishi!" they chanted in a driving rainstorm.

Eisenhower, his face ruddy after two days of exposure to the blazing Manila sun, appeared relaxed. He wore a dark blue suit complete with vest and a white Panama hat. He was protected from the hot sun which raised the temperature to 91 degrees at 4 p. m., by an oval roof.

Eisenhower chuckled as a platoon of motorcycles rode by, with cards spelling out his nickname — I-K-E.

DOROTHY DIX

Daughter Finds Only Unhappiness in House Divided Against Itself

By HELEN WORDEN ERSKINE

Dear Helen: Worden Erskine: I'm 18 and still in high school. I want to leave home but don't have the money. My father has threatened to get a divorce. My mother accuses him of running around with the women he works for. She tells me his faults; he tells me her faults.

Three weeks ago I went to see a boy in the Navy hospital. My mother had a fight with his parents and forbade me to talk to them. The kids in the neighborhood were going to see the boy. My father said I could go; my mother said I couldn't. Ever since I went she has forbidden me to go out with the kids. She opens my mail. My girl friend's mother called mine and asked how come? My mother said, "I don't want my daughter to get a bad reputation."

My girl friend's aunt and uncle want me to come live with them and take care of their kids. They will give me a car and some spending money. Could my parents stop me? Should I leave now or stick it out? — S.

Dear S: To live in a house divided against itself is corroding to body and soul. Small wonder you have not yet graduated from high school. I wish I could say: "Leave home!" But a girl is a minor until she is 21 in all but four states: Georgia, Kentucky, Hawaii and Alaska. As a minor you are under the jurisdiction of your parents.

However, you have your rights. One is the right to a peaceful environment. Tell your unhappy father and nerve-worn mother that parenthood, like marriage, should be a companionship founded on love. If it isn't, they are sadly deficient. Your mother's kind of discipline may be more revenge than discipline.

Speak up gently but firmly. Your be-deviled parents need not only understanding, but love. If you keep your temper you'll come through the winner.

Equip yourself for whatever you want to do in life by channeling your education in that direction. Save your earnings for this purpose. Profit by your hours at the library by reading only the books which will help you on your way. Publius Syrus, the Roman philosopher said more than a thousand years ago, "No man knows what he can do till he tries." That maxim still holds good.

Dear Helen Worden Erskine:

My husband and I have been married eight months. I am pregnant. He is wonderful when sober, works regularly and brings his pay check home. I love him and know he loves me. But drink is his weakness. He started going to church with me but still drinks on Saturdays. He is 23 (and 18, I don't want a divorce but for our baby's sake he shouldn't go on like this. What do you suggest? — Troubled

Dear Troubled: Have you tried Alcoholics Anonymous? My letter on Alcoholism may also be of help. It goes to you today. Your husband doesn't seem to be a hopeless alcoholic yet. The coming of the baby may straighten him out.

Send your problem to Helen Worden Erskine. Be sure to enclose a stamped, self-addressed envelope and address the letter to this newspaper.

LRU to Resume Basketball Play

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — Little Rock University will resume intercollegiate basketball in 1961-62 and will ask to join the Arkansas Intercollegiate Conference.

The Board of Trustees yesterday approved resumption of athletics.

The school has not fielded intercollegiate teams since it became a four-year university. It last competed against other schools as Little Rock Junior College.

School officials said basketball players would be granted athletic scholarships.

Publicly director Tom Broce said a coach is being sought. He said immediate AIC membership will be asked. If the request is denied, he said, LRU will compete as an independent the first year and renew its application the following year.

Broce said a combination teacher-coach would be sought. At the same time, he said, players will be sought.

The program will be financed by a new activity fee to be charged students.

Miscue Holds Yanks to Tie, Loss of Lead

By ED WILKS Associated Press Sports Writer

Because what should have been a sacrifice fly was converted into a doubleplay, the New York Yankees have only a share of the American League lead instead of being all alone on top.

The boo-boo came in the third-inning of Wednesday night's game at Kansas City. Hector Lopez left third base too soon on a fly ball and was doubled up by the A's — who then twice overcame three-run deficits and held the Yankees to a 7-7, 12-inning tie.

When rain finally called a halt, the Yankees were all square with Cleveland. And the Baltimore Orioles, who split a two-night pair with the Indians were just one percentage point back.

The third-place Orioles, beating the Indians 13-5 after a 10-2 first game loss, have a 33-24 record. New York and Cleveland each are 29-21. That figures out to a half-game edge for Baltimore, but percentages form the basis of the standings.

The Chicago White Sox regained fourth place with a 6-4 decision over Washington. Boston spilled Detroit to fifth by beating the Tigers 4-3 in 10 innings.

In the National League, the Pittsburgh Pirates gained a three-game lead — largest of the season in either league — by walloping second-place San Francisco 14-6. Third-place Milwaukee slipped five games behind by splitting a two-night doubleheader with Chicago. The Cubs won the second game 8-5 after losing 5-4. St. Louis defeated Cincinnati 6-0. Los Angeles clobbered Philadelphia 14-2. That third-inning run that never got home kept the Yankees from an eight straight victory. Home runs by Yogi Berra and Cleo Jones sent them into the last of the ninth with a 4-3 lead. But the A's then went to work on starter Ralph Terry and relievers Bobby Shantz and Johnny James, scoring three for a tie on North Siebern's sacrifice fly and a pair of bases-loaded walks.

The Yankees scored three more in the 12th, capped by Roger Maris' two-run single off Leo Kiely. But Kansas City, winless in nine consecutive tries against New York, squared it again in Pete Daley's two-run pinch-homer off Ryne Duren, a single by Jerry Lumpe and a triple by Whitey Herzog.

An eight-run eighth inning did it for the Orioles in the second game after home runs by Al Piharcik and Gus Triandos had overhauled a 5-0 Cleveland lead. Jim Busby, just back from the minors, doubled twice and drove in two runs in the rally. Jim Grant 4-2 was the loser. Hoyt Wilhelm 3-4 win it.

The Tribe took the opener with four runs with two out in the first inning against Steve Barber 5-3. The first of Johnny Romano's pair of two-run homers settled it. Jim Perry 7-2 put away his sixth in a row.

Roy Sievers drove in four runs for the White Sox with two homers against his old mates. The second cracked a 4-4 tie in the seventh and beat Pete Ramos 3-8. Gerry Staley 7-2 was the winner.

Consecutive singles by Pete Runnels, Ted Williams and Frank Malzone did it for the Red Sox. Tom Morgan 3-1 was the loser and Mike Fornieles 4-1 the winner, both in relief.

Pirates Build to Lead by Socking Giants

By ED WILKS Associated Press Sports Writer

The St. Louis Cardinals are seven games behind and the Chicago Cubs trail by 9½. But they are the two top clubs in any pennant plans Pittsburgh has at the moment in the National League race.

The Pirates have a three-game lead-biggest bulge of the season in the majors-after socking second-place San Francisco 14-6 Wednesday. They pulled five games away from third-place Milwaukee after the Braves managed no more than a split with the Cubs in a two-night doubleheader.

But while the Cubs, winning 9-5 after a 5-4 loss, kept the Braves from closing in, the Cardinals continued to look like possible challengers with a 6-0 victory over Cincinnati. It was the fifth success in six games for the fourth-place Cards, who took three of four from the Pirates last weekend. They did it behind the three-hit pitching of rookie Ray Sadecki. Los Angeles walloped last-place Philadelphia 14-2 in the other NL game.

In the American League the New York Yankees were held to a 7-7, 12-inning tie by Kansas City and rain, but gained a share of first place with Cleveland. The Baltimore Orioles made it a virtual three-way deadlock—just one percentage point behind—by dividing a two-night pair with the Indians. The Chicago White Sox regained fourth place with a 6-4 victory over Washington. Boston spilled Detroit to fifth by beating the Tigers 4-3 in 10 innings.

The seventh-place Cubs, who almost made it a sweep, by junking Warren Spahn's four-hit shut-out with four ninth-inning runs in the opener, came from behind with six runs in the nightcap eighth. An error by Red Schoendienst, which made four of the runs unearned, and five singles did it as the Cubs tagged starter Carl Willey, losing reliever Ron Piche 0-2 and Lew Burdette in the big frame.

Moe Drabowsky 2-0 won it in relief after the Braves scored all their runs on homers by Ed Matthews, who socked two, and Wes Covington.

Ed Bouchee's three-run homer off reliever Don McMahon capped the Cubs' ninth-inning rally in the first game. McMahon 2-5, winless since opening day, finally won it when the Braves beat Seth Morehead 0-4 with a two-run ninth capped by Al Spangler's single.

The Pirates battered Billy O'Dell 2-6 and five relievers for 19 hits while running up the highest score of the season against the Giants. Don Hoak drove in four runs with three hits. Dick Groat and winner Harvey Haddix 4-3 each had four hits.

Sadecki, a 19-year-old lefty walked eight but struck out nine for his first major league victory in three decisions. It also was his first complete game and first shutout by the Cardinals.

Duke Snider and Don Demeter hit two-run homers for the Dodgers while Sandy Koufax 2-8 allowed the Phils only five hits. Jim Owens 3-7 was the loser.

THE STORY OF MARTHA WAYNE

Hardin Raps Free Elector System

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Joe C. Hardin, one of five candidates for governor, says the Arkansas "free elector" law could lead to the state's presidential electors—under leadership of Gov. Orval E. Faubus—voting for a Republican president.

Hardin, in a statement in Little Rock, said that under the present law, presidential electors are not bound to vote for the party nominee and "we could conceivably see the fourth term candidate (Faubus) telling the electors to vote for Richard Nixon because the Democratic Party wouldn't give the Faubus machine the best deal."

Hardin pledged, if elected, to have party designations restored to the ballot.

He said that under present law, even though the state's vote is Democratic as in the past, there would be nothing to stop electors voting for a Republican.

Faubus was not available for comment on Hardin's charge or on a charge yesterday by H. E. Williams that he once ordered integration of two state colleges.

But the governor, launched an attack of his own yesterday against Hardin.

Speaking in Little Rock Faubus replied to a Hardin charge that the governor altered his stories to fit political circumstances; he contended that Hardin had shifted his own stand on a minimum wage law.

Faubus cited a newspaper clipping which quoted Hardin as being opposed to the minimum wage proposal. Yet, the governor said, before the AFL-CIO Committee on Political Education, Hardin had endorsed the proposal.

"Now, if that's the case, who's talking out both sides of his mouth?" Faubus said.

Hardin said the newspaper clipping was misleading. "All I said was that I opposed the extension of the minimum wage to agricultural workers," he said. I have endorsed the minimum wage proposal which will apparently appear on the November general election ballot."

Faubus, speaking to a labor group, described himself as a friend of labor and "a working man, myself."

The governor made no reference to Williams' charge earlier yesterday that Faubus, in his first term, had ordered integration of two state colleges. Williams said his information came from a well known educational leader.

Williams said that Faubus would say things are different now, but that they are not.

Faubus has been widely hailed by segregationists since 1957, when he called out the National Guard to avert integration at Little Rock Central High School. Federal troops later enforced the court-ordered desegregation.

Hardin, after a trip to West Memphis yesterday to confer with East Arkansas political and agricultural leaders, said in his statement that the free elector law means "the people of Arkansas won't have much of a voice in the naming of a president." He said the law means that the decision as to how the state votes will be made "by the political powers that be in the state and not by the people."

Hardin named Elsjane Trimble, wife of Blytheville, daughter of Judge Thomas C. Trimble of Little Rock, state chairman of a women's advisory committee of the Citizens for Hardin organization.

The other two candidates for the Democratic nomination, Atty. Gen. Bruce Bennett and Hal Millsap Jr., were quiet yesterday.

Bennett Lawsuits Before Court

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — Pulaski Circuit Court judges today hear two lawsuits brought by Atty. Gen. Bruce Bennett against the National Assn. for the Advancement of Colored People.

In one, Bennett seeks a maximum $5,000 penalty from the NAACP for allegedly operating in Arkansas as a foreign corporation before qualifying with the secretary of state.

In the second suit, Bennett is asking an injunction to prevent the NAACP from engaging in alleged unauthorized practice of law.

Crash Victims Buried in Snow

ANCHORAGE, Alaska (AP)—Most of the 14 persons who died in the crash of an airliner on an Alaska mountaintop were believed today to be buried in deep snow. A six-man party flown by helicopter to the crash scene near the summit of 9,846-foot Mt. Gillbert said remains of only one or two of the nine passengers and five crew members could be found.

There was no chance that any of the others survived, the Alaska Rescue Council group added. The four-engine Pacific Northern Airlines Constellation disintegrated Tuesday as it hit the tip of the peak and tumbled about 700 feet down its slope.

Chapter XXVII

"Are you arresting me, too?" Dorcas asked the sheriff.

He shook his head. "Nor Ry Buckner, unless he interferes. Just be sure you don't try to turn back to warn Duke."

He'd been thinking fast all this while. She begrudged the moments he was holding her here, knowing that Hatchet might bottle up the gulch meanwhile, knowing that time could count in her getting to Granville Cross ahead of Pru, if that were still possible.

She said, "Too late for that. I thank you for the 24 hours. I'll give you no trouble."

He pulled his horse aside to let her pass. "Good girl," he said. She rode around him and headed on. She felt him watching after her, but when she did venture to look back, he was gone from sight.

The horse was lathered when she reached the Brewster place, and might had got to the valley ahead of her. She reached Pollock an hour later and changed horses there, not offering any explanation. She pushed the horse by starlight, pushed it relentlessly, and got another fresh mount at Anchor 4.

Nine o'clock, she judged, when she hit town and pulled the horse to a trot along Bottom Street. The lighted Frontier showed horses at its hitchrail; and when she passed the mercantile, she saw her mother moving about by lamplight. She peered, looking for Pru. She rode on to the courthouse corner. No light tonight in McQueen's quarters, but two upper windows glowed, one in the treasurer's of-

It's A Man's World

Few events in a parent's life are more solemn and heart-rending than the experience of having one's darling baby boy step into a man's world. The first time by having the neighborhood barber remove those fluffy feathery curls forever.

Only slightly less of an emotional milestone will be reached when young "Casey" Walsh of St. Louis reaches the stage where he asks Dad if he can borrow his razor.

Between 16 months and 16 years, he'll be in a rough, tough world that will involve climbing (to the tip-top) of at least 10,000 fences, scaling three times that many fences, wearing out innumerable knees of blue-jeans (which will be cut down to serve as shorts the following summer) and tracking in, conservatively, several tons of dirt and mud which will be distributed on carpets, furniture slip covers, towels, bedspreads, tablecloths and the clothes he wears.

house.

When Pru came into the parlor she saw her sister standing there, looking hard, used and almost ready to fall, yet at the same time looking fierce enough to fight a mountain lion. Her eyes wild with whatever need had brought her.

"That letter," Dorcas said sharply. "The one Duke gave you to hand to Granville Cross. You've still got it?"

"Why, yes," Pru said. "Granville wasn't in town."

"Give it to me," Dorcas demanded.

Pru stiffened. "Duke said I was to hand it to Granville. And to nobody else."

"Haven't you guessed what's in it?"

"Something about that trouble with Lark Rigby the other night, I suppose. Duke's side of the story."

"More than that, Pru. It has a full confession about what happened five years ago, telling how Duke robbed Ry Buckner on the trail hom and then framed him."

Pru drew in a deep breath. Suddenly she was so happy she wanted to sing, yet whatever bond she was freed from was one she hadn't known existed. Ry cleared! Ry proved innocent at last; and yet she had never condemned Ry in her mind or thought different of him because he had gone to prison; still this was a great thing, knowing that he needn't have gone.

"I should have guessed all along," she said. "We all should have. Some people thought Ry innocent and suspected Duke. Now everybody will know the truth!"

"No," Dorcas said. "I've got to you in time. That letter must be destroyed."

Pru was startled. "That would be for Duke to say. He chose to write it."

"Pru," Dorcas said, "you're being as big a fool as Duke. That business of five years ago is dead now; Ry is out of prison and it's all over and done with. Will you tell me what earthly good it will do for Duke to put a second strike against himself when already he has a murder charge to face?"

"It will make an old wrong right," Pru said. "It will make Ry really free."

"All Ry wanted, all he returned for, was to bridge back to Duke; if he could. I left the two of them a few hours ago. They are friends again."

Chapter XXVIII

Pru was growing angry. "You want a husband free of trouble, so you want Duke to have every chance in court. You want that at any cost. Ry doesn't matter, and Duke doesn't matter really; only your selfishness matters. The town was right, Dorcas, Martha Castner and all the others who threw things up to Maw. They guessed what you were after when you bought a marriage license with Duke on the run. They said you wanted to marry Duke before he got hanged, so that Boxed J would be yours when Gulley dies. Nothing has ever mattered to you but getting hold of the almighty dollar. But this time what somebody else wants is going to count. I mean that letter and what Duke wanted done with it!"

Dorcas stepped back, anger coloring her face and her eyes blazing. Then she shook her head slowly.

"Maybe I deserved that, Pru," she said. "That doesn't make it hurt less, coming from you. Maybe you were young to remember Paw dead and Maw starting a store in a shack and the days when we went hungry and the nights when we slept cold. That was when I realized that what you really want you should go after. And that was when I promised myself the Lanes would see better days. Not only me, You, Maw. Starting today, I'm mistress of Boxed J. Not the hired bookkeeper, but the lady of the house. If I was in no hurry to marry Duke until I saw I might lose the chance, the fact remains that my marrying him means the beginning of a good day. Not only for me. For you and Maw, too. That's what I always wanted the best for the Lanes."

"Except," Pru said, "that you never bothered to ask us whether that was what we wanted or whether we'd quibble at any part of the price. I'm quibbling now, Dorcas, when it means that Duke's letter has to be destroyed."

Dorcas took a step toward her, anger on her cheeks again. "Where's that letter?" she demanded.

"I won't tell you!" Pru flared, but in spite of herself she glanced toward the bedroom.

Dorcas saw that glance and started for her bedroom.

Pru felt her sister's fingers close on her shoulder to hurt her aside. She got her arms around Dorcas, and the two of them began swaying and struggling, fierce as two cats. She flung her weight against Dorcas, and they went down to roll on the floor.

There was no scratching or biting, yet they were pitted against each other relentlessly. There was no shrieking; they struggled silently. Pru finding more strength in Dorcas than she had expected; but Dorcas' real advantage was something of the mind.

"All right, Pru," Dorcas said in an even voice. "You win."

U.S.-JAPAN CENTENNIAL—Four-cent stamp, commemorating the hundredth anniversary of the first treaty between Japan and the United States, was designed by Gyo Fugikawa, left, a New York artist of Japanese parentage. The stamps—120 million of them—will be printed in black and pink. Japanese ambassadors in 1880 met in Washington the first comprehensive treaty the country signed with a foreign power.

ly unbuckling the gun-belt, Duke let it drop, then kicked it aside. "Getting to be a habit," he said. "One question, Virg. Coming here, you must have met Dorcas. Is she all right?"

"I met her," McQueen said. "She wanted another 24 hours to talk you into surrendering. But that game's played out."

"What I want to know is whether she got Past Hatchet's camp."

"Likely. We'll soon know. We'll be running that gentle, our selves."

Blicker shook his head. "Think twice, McQueen. Dorcas is in no danger, compared with Duke. Hatchet may have grabbed her and he's trying to get her to lead them to Duke. They'll never budge her in a million years, and they wouldn't try rough stuff on a woman. Spence Rigby's too cautious for that. But if they get Duke, it will be different. You know about Rigby's hangtree fever. You put the name to it. Better we hold up here till tomorrow when Hatchet is scattered over the mountains again."

"No," McQueen said stonily. "I do my resting only when I've shut a cell door on Duke." He stared thoughtfully at Buckner. "I told you, remember, that come the showdown, I might find you on Duke's side of the fence. Is that the way it stands?"

"We settled our differences, McQueen. But that isn't the question. Alvin, there's no way out of the gulch. It's night except straight through!"

Blames Reds With Japan Trouble

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Senate Foreign Relations Committee declared today Communist forces are opposing the new U.S.-Japan security treaty in a "deliberate effort to stifle Japan's free institutions."

If a report urging the Senate to ratify the treaty, the committee said it is in the best interests of Japan and the United States and the entire non-Communist world.

The report said Japan is under considerable Communist pressure and militarily is highly vulnerable to Communist China and the Soviet Union, which it said are waging a violent propaganda campaign against democratic Japanese political institutions.

"Internally, a noisy but equally tireless Communist-oriented minority poses a constant threat to parliamentary government in Japan," the report said.

Prices Can Still Go Up Some

By SAM DAWSON
AP Business News Analyst

NEW YORK (AP)—Prices can still go up despite the belief of the Federal Reserve Board that the threat of further monetary inflation is lifted for the time being.

The man who figure out the consumer price index in Washington says there should be little rise in the over-all cost of living for awhile, with seasonal changes in the price of food affecting the index most.

But here and there prices continue to creep higher. And if business activity turns up in the fall as now predicted the trend will have strong support from that.

Higher prices are expected in some areas, notwithstanding the easing in interest rates, the greater and often surplus capacity to produce, the keener sales competition.

Men's clothing is expected to be a bit dearer in the fall. Makers say the prices will reflect wage increases.

The average cost of cars is lower on the official cost of living index. But that is mainly because of the advent of the compact cars and some sluggishness in the used car markets.

Eastern railroads are talking about a hike in freight rates. Railroad wage rates are going up, too.

Costlier freight would hit manufacturers and merchants first, and trickle down later to consumers.

Airlines are expected to be allowed to hike their fares too, to help them pay for the expensive jets that the traveling public prefers.

Users of steel haven't forgotten that wage increases are set for the end of the year. Many expect to see the price of things made of steel to rise along with it.

Wage scales are expected to rise in several important industries this year, and some increases will be automatic under old contracts.

The most that is now expected for food prices is that they will change with the seasons. But there are hoarding factors here, too. In the case of basic crops, there is government support of prices. And in that big factor in the final price of food—the cost

Jr. Executive Is Mystery of Business

By HAL BOYLE

NEW YORK (AP)—The mystery man of today's business world is "the junior executive."

Who is he? What is he? Where is he?

"The junior executive appears to be a post-war phenomenon. Now, it seems, he has become the second lieutenant of industry. He is fresh from the ranks but still far from the command post.

In the insurance and clothing ads it is easy to tell the junior executive, he is young and eager and has his cordovan slip-on loafers firmly planted on the ladder of success.

He has an Ivy League air of studied neatness. His hat is two sizes too small for him, his suit looks as if it had been shrunk to fit him. His tie is as slim as his wallet.

Both his chin and shoulders are

Cool and appealing is the summer meal served out of doors. Cool and appealing is the outdoor main dish which combines meat or seafood with the refrigerator magic of unflavored gelatin.

For a summer outdoor buffet, the nationally popular combination of canned tuna, sliced celery, green pepper and olives gains new beauty when unflavored gelatin designs it as a party main dish.

Unflavored gelatin and bouillon or clear stock create the base for this summer aspic. Then the tuna and crisp vegetables are blended in, and the main dish goes into the refrigerator to chill until firm.

Tomato halves topped with mashed avocado, green beans and sautéed mushrooms, along with iced tea, complete the menu.

Court Order Averts a Walkout

CHICAGO (AP)—A federal court order may have averted a walkout by pilots of three of the nation's largest airlines in a dispute over cockpit seating of federal inspectors in jet aircraft.

However, a fourth airline, Eastern, was still partially crippled despite a similar injunction issued in Miami ordering pilots back to work. Eastern pilots have refused since Friday to fly out of Miami because of the cockpit seating dispute.

Eastern said its planes were ready to take off, but it could not reach any of the pilots. The Air Line Pilots Assn. has authorized no strike and has asked pilots to comply with the court's order.

The other carriers involved are American Airlines, Pan American World Airways, and Trans World Airlines.

In Chicago Tuesday they sought and got a temporary injunction barring pilots of the three lines from interfering with regularly scheduled flight service.

The three lines asked for the order after their pilots adopted resolutions, notifying the companies they would not fly jets if inspectors for the Federal Aviation Agency insist on displacing the third pilot from his flight station during flights.

U.S. Dist. Judge Julius H. Miner granted the injunction against ALPA and two of its officers within minutes after the petition was filed. ALPA said it would comply.

An attorney for the carriers, George B. Christensen, told Judge Miner he believed the pilots intended a strike.

An official of ALPA denied Christensen's allegations.

Clarence Sayen, ALPA president, issued a statement saying pilots of TWA, American and Pan Am were being urged to obey the court order.

ALPA, he said, was taking immediate steps to have the order lifted.

In contention is a ruling by FAA Chief E. R. Quesada that the forward observer seat is the only spot where inspectors can observe crew performance.

Says Expense Stories Good for the Reds

WASHINGTON (AP)—Rep. Francis E. Walter (D-Pa.) says newspaper stories on congressional expense accounts "directly" plied into the communist plan by smearing the committee on Un-American Activities.

Walter, who is chairman of the committee, referred to a series of copyright stories published by the Knight newspapers. Two of the series discussed expense accounts and actions of Walter's committee.

Walter called the stories "scandalous and a concoction of half-truths, untruths, smear and innuendo adorned with adjectives used in lieu of facts."

One of the series of articles portrayed the committee as staging a road show in which the same witness in a number of different cities opened overseas mail bags and pulled out what was called Communist propaganda.

The bags were opened in each case by Irving Fishman, deputy collector of the U.S. Customs Service at New York. Walter said the suggestion that the hearings were a traveling act "is not only untruthful, but its presentation in this vein, after the authors were three times given a full explanation of the facts, is vile."

The series, by reporters Don Oberdorfer and Walter Pincus, also reported vouchers turned in by committee members for $45 hotel and restaurant bills, nightclub tabs and hired limousines.

Walter deplored this, saying the committee's unvariable policy prohibits charging entertainment liquor or personal expenses to the government.

He said the hiring of limousines in some cities actually saved money and enabled committee

Ike Hasn't Said Right Thing Yet

Editor's Note—Jim Becker has spent the last decade in the Pacific, first as a war correspondent in Korea, then in Tokyo, Honolulu and Manila. He has been AP chief of bureau in Manila for the past 2 1/2 years.

By JIM BECKER

MANILA (AP)—Enthusiasm for President Eisenhower is at a high pitch in the Philippines, but he has yet to tell the Filipinos what they want to hear.

If he fails to do so before he departs, he will leave disappointment spotted among friendly memories of his triumphant homecoming.

Eisenhower delivered the first major speech of his Manila visit today to a combined session of the Philippine Congress.

It was frankly a disappointment to the legislators.

Privately they admitted its complicated phrases and weighty preachments did not strike a spark of response in Filipino members to keep tighter schedules. He said committee members often must rent hotel suites with sitting rooms for conferences and committee business.

In another development, Rep. P. Lipscomb (R-Calif.) said he was introducing legislation to tighten procedures for claiming expenses on both domestic and overseas trips by congressmen. It would require public reporting of all reimbursed expenses, bills, receipts and accounts, and provide for an audit of these disbursements every six months by the comptroller general.

as square as he is. He lives in a small white house with a small white mortgage, a neat blonde wife, and two neat children—a pretty blonde daughter, and a mischievous freckle-faced son.

In the ads there is no doubt about who or what or where the junior executive is. He is the young fellow on his way up. He is a clean-cut, crew-cut go-getter.

But in real life the picture isn't clear at all. The question, "What is a junior executive?" is about as puzzling as the older business mystery, "Just what does a vice president do?"

Few, if any, major firms actually list any such title as "junior executive" on their command roster.

Here are a few definitions of the junior executive, gleaned from a random poll of Manhattan office employees:

"A junior executive is what a guy tells his mother-in-law he is to explain why he doesn't make more than $85 a week."

"He's the assistant bookkeeper who was put in charge of office parties and picnics when the automatic computing system came in."

"He's the fellow who buys a $15 attache case to carry his lunch in."

"In our office he's the joker who married the boss's niece."

"Anybody under 35 too proud to belong to a union and too poor to belong to a country club."

"A junior executive is a college graduate who isn't smart enough to demand overtime."

From this sampling, one conclusion is inescapable: Whatever a junior executive is—he is more junior than executive.

Orange Blossom Wedding Punch

Whether for a shower or a home wedding reception, what could be prettier than a sunny punch bowl highlighted by a wedding ring of orange blossoms in ice?

Good way to decorate your punch and at the same time keep it chilled. If you cannot get the fresh blossoms, use the imitation ones which have been used as hat trimmings for years.

Convenient frozen concentrated Florida orange juice is a perfect choice for the base of your punch. You'll find it economical and healthfully refreshing, too. Besides the icy ring of blossoms, float a few thin slices of Florida oranges for added color.

Orange Blossom Punch

4 cans (6 ounces each)
Florida frozen concentrated orange juice
5 cups cold water

1 quart water and ice cubes
1 quart chilled gingerale
2 Florida oranges, thinly sliced

Combine undiluted concentrate with the 5 cups cold water in punch bowl. Add additional water and ice cubes; stir until melted. Add gingerale. Garnish with halved orange slices and ice ring. Yield: 32 1/2-cup servings.

Note: If desired, recipe may be doubled. Champagne may be substituted for gingerale if desired.

Orange Blossom Ice Ring

Fill 5 cup ring mold with water. Float fresh orange blossoms or other small blossoms, small green leaves and small fruit of your choice, in the water and freeze. If you do not have a large freezing compartment, a similar arrangement can be done in an ice tray.

Market Buys for Weekend Are Listed

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Spring lamb takes over the feature spot among weekend specials offered by supermarkets and neighborhood stores this week.

Lamb is in plentiful supply for the first time since last fall.

Leg of lamb held the meal counter spotlight in New York City, Baltimore, Detroit and Los Angeles. Prices were down as much as six cents a pound from last week.

Other spring favorites, frying chickens and turkeys, also were in ample supply and widely advertised.

Beefsteak and smoked ham were prominent among the week-end specials. Sirloin steaks were down from 22 cents a pound in Detroit, rib roasts and loin pork chops were higher.

A good variety of fish was offered.

Egg prices generally were down one to two cents a dozen.

Housewives had a wide choice this week at vegetable and fruit counters.

New arrivals at the market included blueberries, cherries, snap beans and broccoli from New Jersey, iceberg lettuce from western New York, cauliflower and cabbage from Long Island. Potatoes from Virginia and cantaloupes and honeydew melons from Texas.

Best buys among vegetables were topped by a big supply of lettuce from California and Arizona.

There were good buys in broccoli, carrots, cauliflower, celery, cucumbers, egg plant, onions, peppers and large potatoes.

Lemons, limes and small oranges were the best buys in fruits.

Good buys included bananas, pineapples, watermelons, Southern peaches, New Jersey cherries, and strawberries from New York and New Jersey.

Lighter Side of News All Over World

By DICK WEST
United Press International

WASHINGTON (UPI)—One of the things I never expected to hear was Shirley Temple telling Richard Nixon what it's like to feel Nikita Khrushchev's stomach.

I suppose conversations like that are fairly commonplace in Hollywood, and maybe even in Moscow, but around here they tend to make your ear lobes twitch.

I don't blame Shirley for being proud of her distinction as the only American woman to lay hands on the Soviet premier's abdomen. It's something she can tell her grandchildren some day. I expect Khrushchev has already told his grandchildren.

"Grandchildren," he probably said, "you are looking at the only Soviet premier who was ever touched on the tummy by Shirley Temple."

For all I know, this may be a status symbol in Russia. Nevertheless, to me it was a big unsetting to hear the spacious boy of Mr. K discussed by an erstwhile child movie star in the office of the U.S. vice president.

Shirley Explains

I was glad that Shirley took the time later to explain the incident to some of us reporters. Otherwise, I might have wrongfully accused my own ears of hearing false witness.

I went around to Nixon's Senate sanctum to watch the original videotape recording of his famous "kitchen debate" with Khrushchev which was being presented to the Library of Congress.

I had in mind writing a "think" piece on the impact that Khrushchev might have on the U.S. presidential campaign. Then I was distracted by an overlapping ceremony.

The videotape people were still hanging around rehearsing old times in Moscow with Nixon when Shirley arrived on a mission for the National Multiple Sclerosis Society.

She and Nixon were scheduled to award some fellowships for multiple sclerosis research. Without hesitation, I changed my mind and decided to do a "think" piece on the impact of child movie stars who grow up to look like adult movie stars.

Mentioned K's Stomach

I mean there is no ginsaying that Shirley grew up in just the right way.

After doing their bit for the multiple sclerosis fund campaign, she and Nixon picked up the threads of the previous conversation. That was when she mentioned having felt Khrushchev's stomach.

As Shirley recounted the episode later, it happened at a Hollywood reception during his U.S. visit last year when Khrushchev learned who she was, he grabbed her hands and clasped Shirley to his mid-section.

The significance of the gesture was not clear but she presumed it meant he used to be a Shirley Temple fan. At any rate, she be-

Queue Up For Chicken

When the aroma of chicken being cooked over coals permeates the air, the line up is long and appetites tremendous. No, you can't go wrong if you serve barbecued chicken at your outdoor feasts. Whether the chicken is roasted whole on a spit, or barbecued by halves or pieces on the grill, here's a sauce to produce a beautiful burnishing glaze and a scintillating flavor.

Cook Out Broilers

1/2 cup corn oil
1 cup lemon juice
1 tablespoon salt
2 tablespoons unsulphured molasses

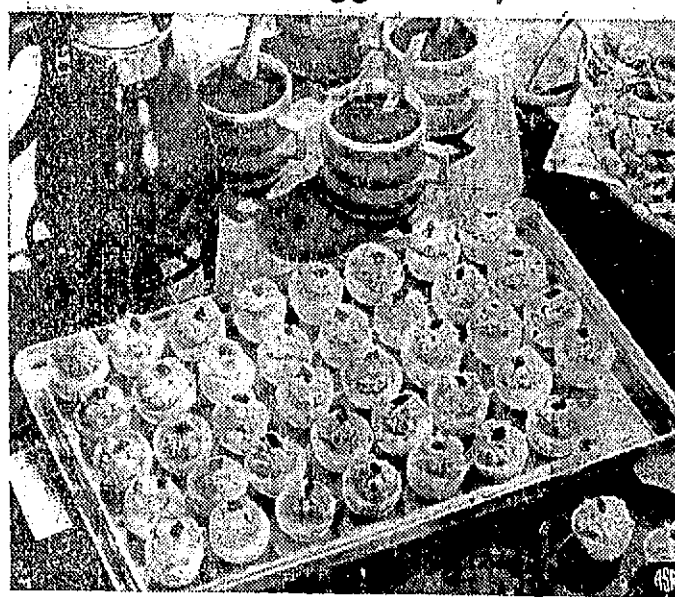

1/4 teaspoon pepper
2 to 3 broiler fryer chickens, split lengthwise

To prepare basting sauce: Measure corn oil, lemon juice, salt, unsulphured molasses, and pepper into saucepan. Heat to boiling. Keep hot for basting chicken. Mix thoroughly before each basting.

To prepare chicken: Hook wing tip behind shoulder joint into back. Place on grate. Brush both sides with sauce.

Start cooking, cut side toward grate. Set 12 inches or more from heat. Cook slowly until tender, turning frequently and basting each time. Drumstick should twist easily out of thigh joint. Allow 1 to 1 1/2 hours total cooking time. Just before serving brush chicken with any left over sauce, or use it for dunking. Excellent results depend upon slow cooking, glowing coals, not flame, and proper distance from heat source.

Deviled Eggs... Hot!

Hot deviled eggs are the newest taste sensation for summer party menus. Enjoy them as the main dish for a neighborly picnic session, or serve them as the surprise feature in a more elaborate buffet luncheon or reception.

When you're making deviled eggs, it's best to cut the cooked eggs crosswise and trim a thin slice off the ends to keep them standing upright. These trimmings are added to the yolks and sieved for the filling.

Party-fancy effect is achieved by spoon filling the shells just level full then adding decorative swirls by putting remainder of filling through a pastry tube. Or, you can pile filling high in the shells and finish with a fancy fork-time trim.

The protein-rich egg served this exciting new way will be the hit of any summer party. It's shown here as the feature of an informal snack, accompanied by mugs of hot tomato juice with celery stick stirrers, and a bowl of corn crisps.

Allow at least three egg halves per person in planning food for a summer affair. Medium eggs are the best size to serve deviled.

Hot Deviled Eggs

20 hard-cooked eggs
3 teaspoons salad mustard
1/2 teaspoon pepper
1/2 cup mayonnaise or salad dressing

1 1/2 tablespoons vinegar
1 pimiento, cut in 1/4-inch pieces
1/2 to 1 cup broth or water

Cut eggs in half. If cut crosswise, cut a thin slice of white off ends. Remove yolks and sieve—putting white trimmings through sieve also. Add mustard, pepper, mayonnaise and vinegar. Beat until smooth. Taste for seasoning, but keep mild since heating intensifies flavor. Refill whites. Garnish with pimiento bits. Arrange on heat-proof serving platter, on electric grill or frypan, or in chafing dish. Pour in enough broth or water to just cover bottom of utensil. Cover and heat thoroughly in oven (350°F) 15 minutes, in electric grill or frypan (300°F) 20 minutes, or in chafing dish 20 minutes. Serve hot. Makes 40 Deviled Egg halves.

Old Glory to Get a Star for Hawaii

By TOM HENSHAW
Associated Press Writer

Old Glory gets a new star—for Hawaii—next Monday with all the pomp and circumstance reserved for a beloved grand dame on a very special birthday.

It's a lot different from the first one.

The fact is that no one can say for sure just how the flag of the United States came to be the Stars and Stripes in the first place.

Did the design spring full-blown from the brain of some creative genius among the founding fathers? If it did no one ever stepped forward to take a bow for it.

Or did it evolve from some existing standard? There is enough evidence, real and fancied, to support several schools of thought on the subject. For instance, the tea party school.

When that defiant band of patriots climbed aboard the good ship Dartmouth in Boston harbor the story was that more than a cargo of tea went overboard with them.

They carried back to Boston the ship's flag, the standard of the British East India Company with its 13 alternate red and white stripes and the British Union Jack in the corner.

The same flag, or an identical copy, now known as the Cambridge flag, came convinced that Khrushchev cannot be regarded as the soft underbelly of Communism.

"I was shocked because it was so firm," she said.

Texas' Pledge Is Boost to Johnson

WASHINGTON (AP)—Texas' pledge of national convention votes to Sen. Lyndon B. Johnson for the Democratic presidential nomination raised the Texas senator's unofficial tally today to 194.

It helped narrow the gap between Sen. John F. Kennedy of Massachusetts, leading the race with 363 convention votes, and the second place Johnson who had been running well behind for weeks. The home state vote for Johnson, the Senate majority leader, had been expected.

bridge or Grand Union flag, was raised over George Washington's headquarters outside Boston in 1776 as the national banner.

Naturally, after the Declaration of Independence was signed, the Union Jack on the American flag became intolerable and was changed to 13 stars. Or so the story goes.

Another school detects a similarity between the Star-Spangled Banner and Washington's family coat of arms, a shield bearing two horizontal red stripes and three red stars. The likeness seems strained.

The first documented reference to the Stars and Stripes came on June 14, 1777, when the Continental Congress resolved:

"That the flag of the United States be thirteen stripes alternate red and white, that the union be thirteen stars on a blue field, representing a constellation."

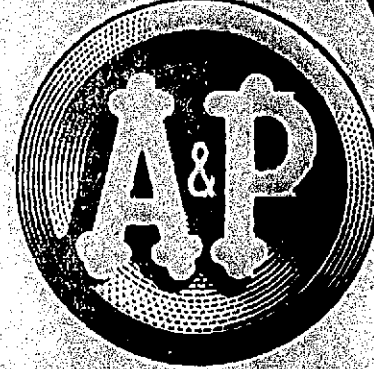

Zion National Park in southwestern Utah covers 94,201 acres. The first practical typewriter was invented by Christopher Sholes of Milwaukee in 1868.

A bolt of lightning jolted Mrs. John Stratton out of her shoes and threw her on her back 10 feet away.

"I felt the shock all the way through my body," the Rogers woman said. But her only apparent injuries were burn streaks on both legs and a numbness in her legs for some time.

Mrs. Stratton was standing beside a wire mesh fence at her home with her hand resting on a wooden post. The bolt, during a violent thunderstorm June 3, traveled through the fence before hitting her.

A couple of sparkling sparrows really made sparks fly. And when it was all over love had burned them.

One sparrow was on a ground wire and the other was perched on a live wire near a transformer in Jonesboro. When their bills met, sparks flew—literally.

A power company employee was passing at the time and saw the result—a blown fuse at the transformer which cut off about 50 power customers. And two dead sparrows, victims of love's brutality.

It's not the Athletics against the Indians, though—it's a group of Negro ballplayers, who'll be on hand to represent those two cities.

It had been one of those days, Paul Buchanan of the Batesville Guard reported, when practically everything had gone wrong—an engagement announcement picture published as a beauty contest entrant, that sort of thing.

He reminded himself, "Cheer up. Things could get worse."

Then, he noted sadly, "I went home to learn that my 15-year-old son is allergic to freshly mowed grass."

He says he's considering green-tinted cement for a lawn.

Van Buren Mayor Allen Ray Toothaker climaxed dedication of a city park swimming pool by going swimming. But it wasn't his idea.

After the mayor's dedicatory address, Dr. Lewis Peet and other Park Commissioner members rushed up to Toothaker—not for congratulations, but to throw him in the pool. Which they did.

Korea President Stripped of Power

SEOUL, South Korea (AP)—The National Assembly today stripped the South Korean presidency of the vast powers Syngman Rhee exercised and adopted the British system of parliament democracy with a premier and cabinet responsible to the Assembly.

The Assembly approved the drastic changes in South Korea's 12-year-old constitution by a 208-3 vote. The president was reduced to a nonpartisan ceremonial head of state elected by the Legislature for a five-year term.

Acting President Huh Chung signed the amendments into law and proclaimed the new form of government.

Mrs. Fleming not only spelled the word within two hours she had found the dog, too. She came across it while working as a census taker.

Odds Slim Tax Changes Will Pass

By JOE HALL

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Senate Finance Committee today considers a variety of changes in the tax laws. The odds appear slim that any of them will be enacted this year.

Before the group is a House-passed bill strongly urged by the Eisenhower administration extending for another year the present corporation income and federal estate tax rates. If they are allowed to drop June 30, federal revenues would decline an estimated four billion dollars a year.

The measure also includes a temporary eight-billion-dollar increase in the 285-billion permanent national debt ceiling for the year ahead. The present temporary 10-billion increase expires June 30.

Sponsors of various tax proposals have been waiting for this annual extension measure because it is the one revenue measure certain to become law this year in some form.

However their chances of changing other tax rates appeared doubtful for these reasons:

1. Secretary of the Treasury Robert B. Anderson reportedly told the committee Tuesday in a lengthy secret session that the bill would be vetoed if any tax cuts were included. Presumably President Eisenhower then would ask Congress to re-pass a simple extension bill quickly.

2. House Ways and Means Committee members are understood to have assured their colleagues they would accept no Senate amendments. The House considered the bill under a rule barring changes; that branch is jealous of its prerogative to originate all revenue legislation.

Some senators on the Finance Committee said privately they felt Anderson made a strong case against any tax cuts at this time.

He argued that the entire $4,200,000,000 surplus predicted by Eisenhower for the year starting July 1 should be kept intact and applied to reduce the national debt, now running about 285 billion.

Both Blasted for Not Being Tougher

By JAMES MARLOW
Associated Press News Analyst

WASHINGTON (AP) — Ironically both President Eisenhower and Premier Nikita Khrushchev, the great opponents in the East-West power struggle, get lambasted for not being tough enough.

In the past few days these things happened:

1. Pravda, the Russian Communist party newspaper, defended Khrushchev against leftist critics who found fault with his policy of co-existence and his talk of easing tensions.

2. Sen. John F. Kennedy, Democrat, and New York's Gov. Nelson Rockefeller, Republican, both criticized Eisenhower for not having this country in a much stronger military position in facing the Russians.

Pravda represented Khrushchev's leftist critics among the Communists as dedicated to the theory of keeping the international pot boiling.

Actually, Khrushchev has kept it boiling. He talked mildly for some months—between his visit here last September and the May summit meeting—but all the time he held the possibility of a Berlin blockade over the West's head.

And Khrushchev's rage which wrecked the summit started with the Soviets' capture of an American spy plane whose repeated excursions over Russia the past four years showed a big dent in Russian defense.

Baffled Westerners, at a loss to explain the violence of Khrushchev's summit performance, leaped to the conclusion that he must be having trouble at home or be under tremendous Kremlin pressure to stop being half-way pleasant.

The Pravda defense of him would indicate this is not so and that he is in full command in Russia. The Pravda piece can be interpreted as aimed straight at the Red Chinese who have been impatient with Khrushchev's dealings with the West.

Rockefeller, who'd like to get the Republican presidential nomination, did not actually say Eisenhower wasn't tough enough in dealing with Russia. He implied it by saying this country is far from being strong enough militarily for dealing Russia.

He wants a much bigger defense buildup.

Kennedy, right now the front-runner for the Democratic nomination, said the summit meeting was doomed to failure before Khrushchev wrecked it because this country was neither strong enough nor well enough prepared to make real negotiation possible.
